

Joint Climate Message by the Turku Climate Partners

Turku continues its determined journey towards its 2029 carbon neutrality target together with its climate partners. The climate partners committed to this work are sending a joint message in support of a carbon-neutral Turku and a sustainable future:

We, the City of Turku's climate partners, are committed to supporting Turku in its goal of becoming carbon neutral by 2029, when the city celebrates its 800th anniversary.

We want to serve as examples of forward-looking climate and nature action. This includes the transition of the entire Turku region towards a low-carbon society, with solutions that strengthen the competitiveness of the region and its businesses.

The sustainability transition requires the participation of the whole of society. Companies and organisations play a key role in creating climate- and nature-smart solutions and markets. In addition, consistent policy, reliable information, and residents who make sustainable choices are needed.

Cities also have a decisive role. Their ambitious targets and ability to bring actors together accelerate the transition faster than states. Right now, cities, companies, and communities together are creating the change that the ecological crisis requires of us. New solutions can only be built with sustainability as the guiding principle.

We are proud that Turku is one of the world's leading climate cities. This is the result of long-term and systematic cooperation.

Turku's position as a maritime climate and nature city benefits everyone. It strengthens the region's attractiveness and builds a sustainable future – for current residents of Turku as well as for future generations. Let us together make sure that people can continue to enjoy a good life in Turku for the next 800 years as well.
